POLICE CAPT. DEVERY. Edward Glennon, his former ward man, also resumes his position in the Department by the same decision. The decision is written by Judge Pryot and is concurred in by Judges Bischoff and Bookstaver.

In the case of Devery the Court's opirion is based on the proposition that the refusal of the Police Commissioners to adjourn his trial when proof of his illness was submitted to them was an abuse of discretion vested in the Commissioners and resulted in his trial and conviction in his absence and without breeze during the earlier afternoon, but affording him an opportunity to be heard in his own defense.

except to the educated eye," says the Noirt
In conclusion Judge Pryor says:
"Notwithstanding Devery's creditable career in the police force, rising from patroiman to captain, and each successive step of promotion attesting his fidelity and efficiency; after all he may be a guilty man.

"But the law knows no guilt except as ascertained by legal means, and a conviction without trial is not a legal procedure.

"Assuming the guilt of the relator (Devery), still better his escape than the overthrow of the only safeguard of "The order of the Board is reversed, and the relator reinstated with costs."

Why Glennon Was Restored. In Ward Man Glennon's case the Cour finds Capt. Devery was an importar witness for Glennon, and that the latter was entitled to an adjournment of hirlal in order to secure Devery's presence.

The Commissioners Accused

Abuse of Discretion and Making False Statements.

William S. Devery was reinstated as captain on the police force to-day by the General Term of the Court of Commission.

Was entitled to an adjournment of his trial in order to secure Devery's presence.

The statement of counsel for the Police Board that Devery's absence and illness were part of a scheme to save Glemon is not in the opinion of the Court, sustained by the evidence.

The allegation that Devery and Glemon were "co-workers in wrong-doing" is referred to as "an inference."

"We may presume." says the Court, "that even on the trial of a policeman he is entitled to the presumption of innocence. The mere fact that Glemon and Devery are jointly accused is no proof that they were conspirators in crime.

"The order of the Commissioners dismissing Gleinon is reversed and the policeman refusited."

In both cases the Court confines the cases on that point alone. The evidence as to bribery and neglect of duty is not mentioned or referred to, the Court deming that the Commissioners committed an error at the very threshold of the case, and that what occurred subsciptions and the police force to-day by the General Term of the Court of Com-

Cause of Dismissal.

Cause of Dismissal.

Capt. Devery was dismissed from the force on a complaint charging him with failing to suppress disorderly houses in the Eleventh Precinct, or Eldridge street station, of which he was in command in 1894.

The complaint was formulated on evidence furnished by Parkhurst Society agents, who made affidavit that Capt. Devery connived at the continuance of disorderly houses.

Capt. Devery was not present at his trial before the Commissioners. His counsel asked for an adjournment on the ground that 'e was too ill to appear and go through the ordeal, but the Commissioners refused to grant it.

Capt. Devery was indicted, tried and acquitted by a jury in General Sessions Court on the same charges for which he was dismissed from the force in June 1894, on a charge of accepting "protection" money from disorderly house keepers while acting as ward man for Capt. Devery, at the Eldridge street station. street station.

He was subsequently indicted for the same offense by the Grand Jury, tried, and acquitted.

The New Hoard Not Surprised. The New Hoard Not Surprised.

The news that Capt. Devery and Ward Man Glennon had been reinstated was no surprise to the Police Commissioners. They had evidently expected the result Air. Andrews said it was no more than he had expected or any one eise could expect when a trial was conducted without the presence of the defendant.

"The courts could do nothing else," said he. "They were obliged to reinstate Devery and Glennon."

President Roosevelt and Commissioner Grant declined to talk about the matter. Commissioner Parker, although he did not say so in so many words, intimated that the result was anticipated when the trial of Devery and Glennon was allowed to take the course it had.

ST. LOUIS OUT FOR BLOOD.

Fuller and Davis made short work of Donovan. Doyle fumbled Clingman's slow grounder, and the first Pirate reached the first billiok. A passed ball allowed him to waltz to second and he trotted to third on Capt. Beckley's sacrifice. Stenzel banged a long one into right, which "Slient Mike" pulled down after a hard run. No runs.

Burke pasted a terrific liner at Clingman, who muffed, but recovered the bail in time to retire Eddie at first. Tiernan tapped an easy grounder to Heckley and was out. Davis waited for bad ones and ambied to first. George was caught napping and run down. No runs.
